Sue Zhou, a member of the King City Camera Club, is again planning to take a group of photographers on two separate photo expeditions to some of the magnificent scenic areas of China again in 2007. One is scheduled for March, the other for October. The trips will include visits to such hidden wonders as the stone forest in Yunnan Province and the fairyland-like limestone corridor in Sichuan Province, places few westerners have ever seen. Other stops include the 247,000-acre

Zhangjiajie Scenic Area—imagine such a largely untrammelled expanse in that ancient land which we westerners consider totally exploited! Zhangjiajie is listed in UNESCO's Catalog of World Natural Heritages. For complete information on the two expeditions, go to Sue's website www.zhousu.us or call Sue at 503-639-8396.

Last meeting I was talking to some of the members, telling them about a mail order frame co. I have used and been very happy with. They asked if I would pass the information on to you so they could have the web site. americanframe.com
